YPSILANTI.

The Eastern Michigan Agricultural Society have decided to hold their annual fair the first week in October, and the premiums will be somewhat increased in the various departments. Hon. E. D. Lay, the president, is giving much time to the details, and promises that it shall be the best fair yet given by the Society. The owners, also, of some of the fastest horses in the West have signified their intention of being present with their stock, and that department will be more than usually interesting.
